

Women's Golf at [Club Name] - 160 Years of Participation

How to use this page

This page can be created using available records, member knowledge, and current activity. It does not need to be complete.

This is not about producing a perfect history.
It is about making participation visible.

Introduction

Women's golf has been part of [Club Name] through regular play, competitions, and member organisation.

This page reflects the participation of women at the club - past and present.

Early History

Women's golf at [Club Name] began in [year or approximate period, if known].

Early records show [any known details, e.g. competitions, members, events].

If exact records are not available, this section can reflect what is known or remembered.

Competitions and Regular Play

Women at the club have taken part in:

- Regular competitions (e.g. medals, Stableford)
- Inter-club matches
- Club events and organised play
- Open days

These activities form part of the ongoing participation of women in the game.

Women's Golf at [Club Name] - 160 Years of Participation

Participation

Women's golf at [Club Name] includes:

- Different ages and stages of play
- New and long-standing members
- Social and competitive formats

This reflects a continuous system of participation within the club.

Notable Moments (Optional)

- Any notable events, competitions, or achievements
 - Club milestones
 - Representative players or teams
-

Finding historical information (optional)

Many early records of women's golf appear in local newspapers. If your club would like to explore its early history, additional reports of competitions, club events, and early participation can be found in newspaper archives, examples:

UK - British Newspaper Archive

US - Chronicling America \(Library of Congress\)

Australia - Trove \(National Library of Australia\)

Search using:

- your club name
- town or area
- terms such as "ladies golf", "competition", or "match"

This is optional - your page can be created using current knowledge & activity.

Women's Golf at [Club Name] - 160 Years of Participation

Today

Women's golf continues at [Club Name] through regular competitions, organised play, and member activity.

October 2027 - 160 Years of Women's Golf

In October 2027, [Club Name] is taking part in recognising 160 years of women's golf participation.

This reflects a wider moment across clubs to make women's participation visible.

This page forms part of the 160 Years of Women's Golf participation project.
